

How do you feel that the greet majority of Americans are stuck getting their broadband from just a handfull of cable companies? Think about it! I feel that the lobbyists and the Brian Robert's of the world have more clout than all the little people & Sen. Mccaine combined.

Helping America pave the last mile of the net so we don't have to rely on the cable companies will do more for the environment, freedom, and democray. I'm for national community based broadband where I\we decide what to buy via the pipeline. Let's stop funding all these special interest foo foo pet projects and go ahead and get our country wired in such a way that were not subject to gate keepers like the cable companies.

Oh, perhaps we'll be better able to educate ourselves online thus possibly not falling behind places like Japan, India, and South Korea.

Thanks for listening and setting a goal to move all our citizens ahead with broadband.

PS

Let Comcast know that were sick of their game playing pricing and bundling of products! It sucks to have the pipeline bundled in with content of their choice in some sort of teaser rate... Ask Mr. Roberts to just be straight forward with America.

Thanks much.
